A complete Compilation of Gift Ideas For Him, Her, And Friends.1. Field of the Invention The invention relates to a method for the production of a molded body of a polyarylate as well as to the molded body produced thereby. 2. Description of the Prior Art The invention relates in particular to the production of molded bodies of a polyarylate containing sulfonium groups, which are present in dissolved form in the polyarylate. The production of molded bodies of a polyarylate containing sulfonium groups in dissolved form is known in principle and has been described, for example, in EP-A 0 482 144 and EP-A 0 454 078. However, the polyarylate containing sulfonium groups produced according to the prior art contains structural units which have the effect of reducing the glass transition temperature (T_g). The polyarylate resin produced according to the prior art has therefore too low a thermal stability and a correspondingly low chemical stability. It is known that the thermal stability of the polyarylate resin can be increased by incorporating glass-like additives, for example by incorporating talc or lignosulfonates or by adding fillers such as barium sulfate or calcium carbonate or mixtures thereof 82157476af
